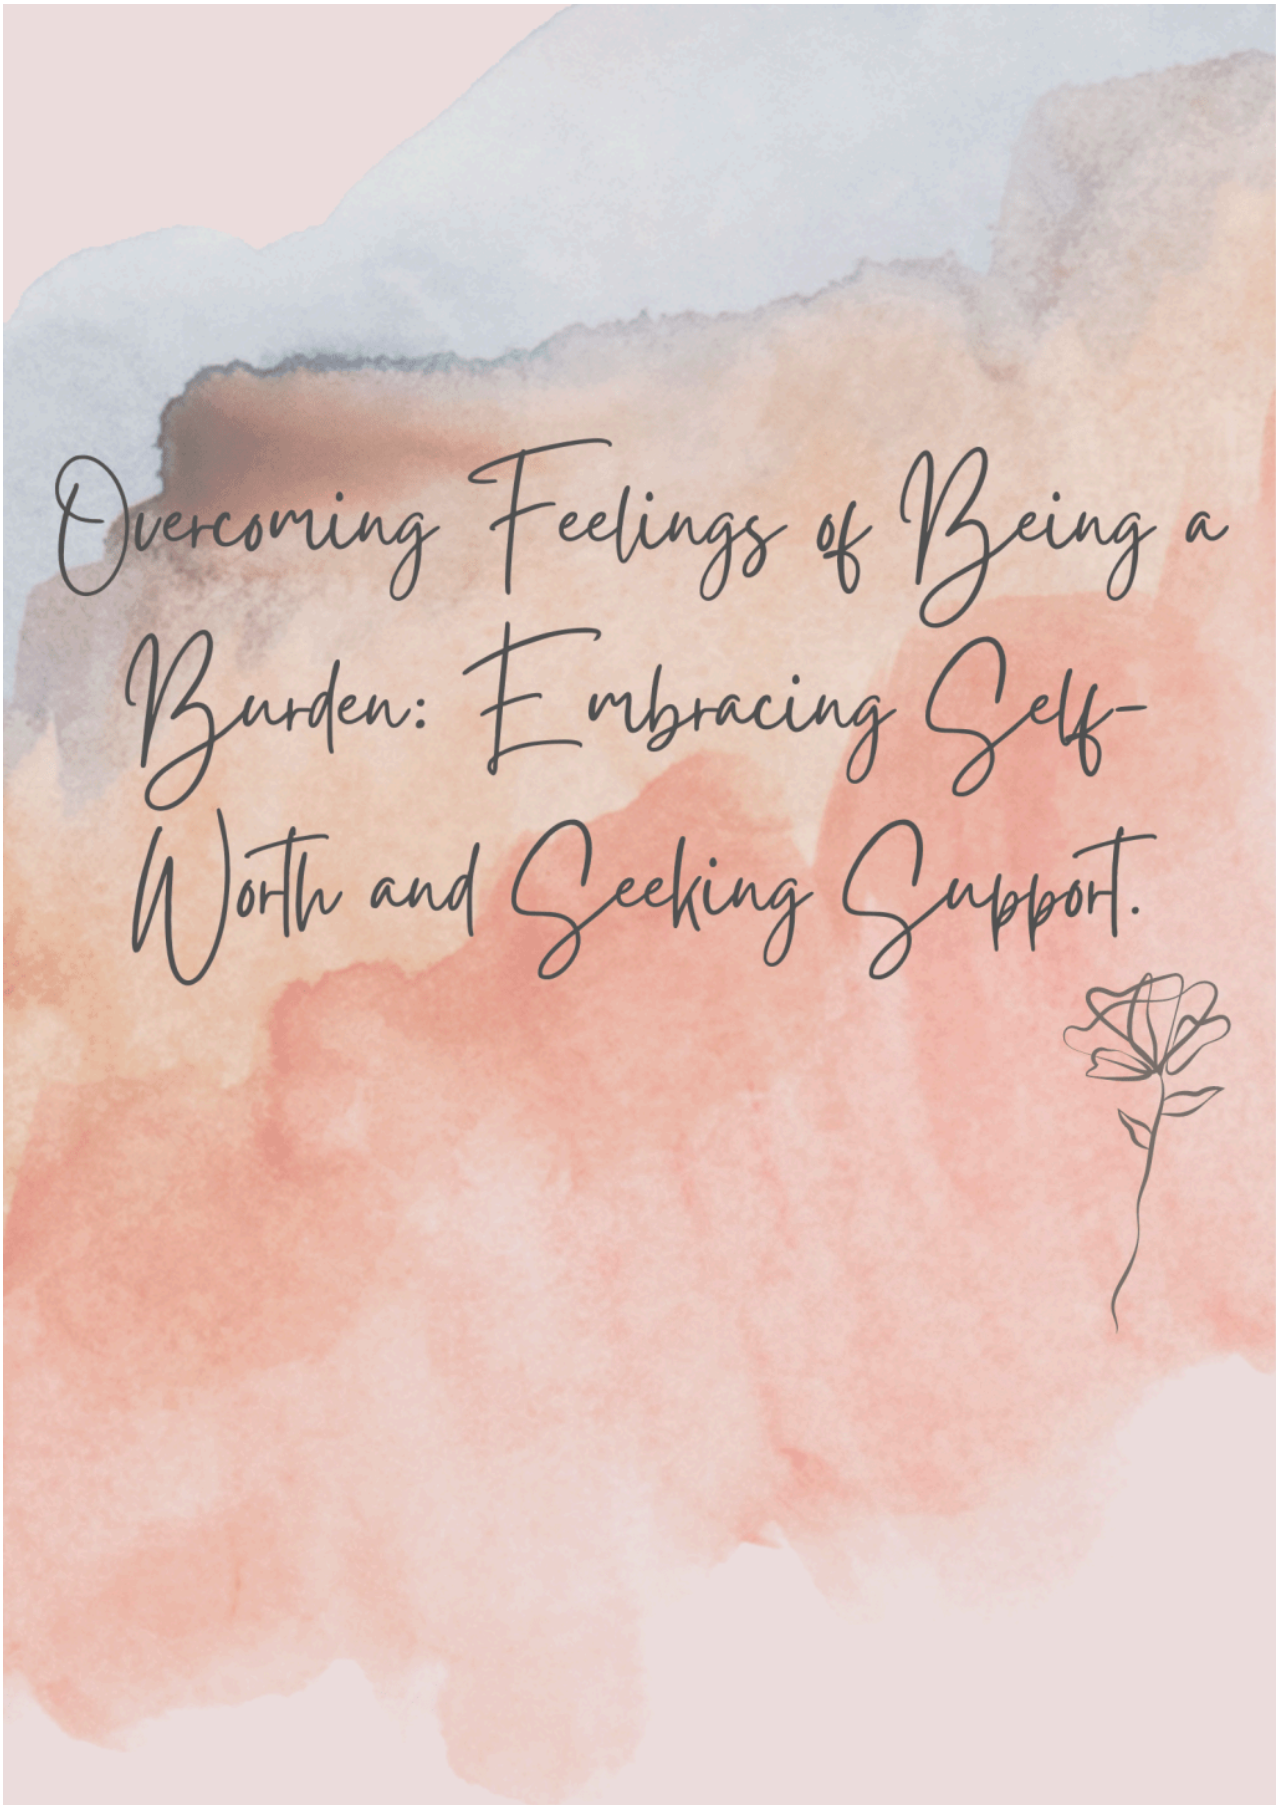
Overcoming Feelings of Being a Burden: Embracing Self-Worth and Seeking Support.

thelifeofmine3.wordpress.com/2022/04/04/im-the-burden/

April 4, 2022

Overcoming Feelings of Being a Burden: Embracing Self-Worth and Seeking Support.



Overcoming Feelings of Being a Burden: Embracing Self-Worth and Seeking Support.

Apr 4, 2022

—

by

Evelin shalomie
in 2014, Early Adulthood, The life of mine
My surroundings had started suffering because of me and to deal with me. Why should I live this life if no one else is like me? I was not degraded in my life, but I was also not accepted.

I had made no promises about my future. I felt like I was bothering my parents and people around me. As a result of my college experience, they changed my class. Every schools of mine experienced the same thing. This change in class affected seniors. Then, for my lab, they must consider me and what else they can do for my lab. It would be a conflict of interest for my lectures and HOD ma'am.

Prici was aware that I enjoyed being alone, but not in this way—like being alone in school or college. I mostly enjoy being alone at home. Being alone in college made me feel lonely. because I was the only one in class.

Then I remembered Appa Amma. I'm not sure what they were thinking. They just needed me to graduate from college. That's all. They never considered what I was thinking. They might be concerned about me. But nothing could ever work on me.

Everyone is looking after me. I assumed it was because of my medical condition. Why should I live this way? I'd like to take a walk. I have a lot of dreams and fantasies about my life. I'm not sure how to put my dreams into action in my life. Even if I can't walk, I can live this life by convincing myself that it's only for the sake of living. But I had always hoped to be cured.